

COLOR

Dear Bored Artist

I hope all of you are still healthy and keeping your hands clean, during this challenging time. I know some of you may be bored from whatever homework you are receiving from school. Trust me, my brain cells are fried too. I had a brain fart and randomly decided to make a coloring book. Its not baby art! Its alot of white space in need of color. I challenge you to make it look as awesome as possible. The images are most of my designs two of the textiles are African textiles from the internet. Your only mission is to color, but feel free to doodle around the images.

If you want to share them with me send me a picture of your favorite one that you colored to my email at ddavis@bsfa.org. In the meantime, be safe, be kind, and release your boredom.

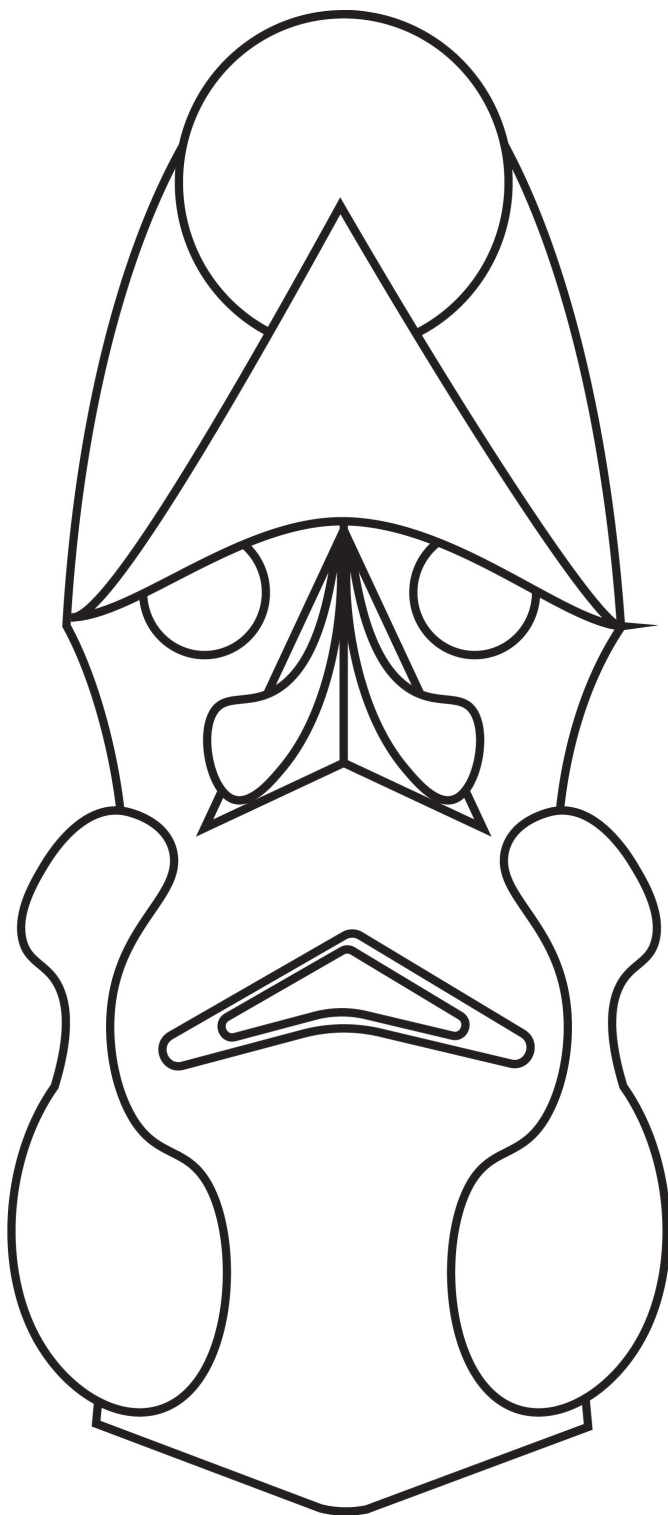

Sincerely,

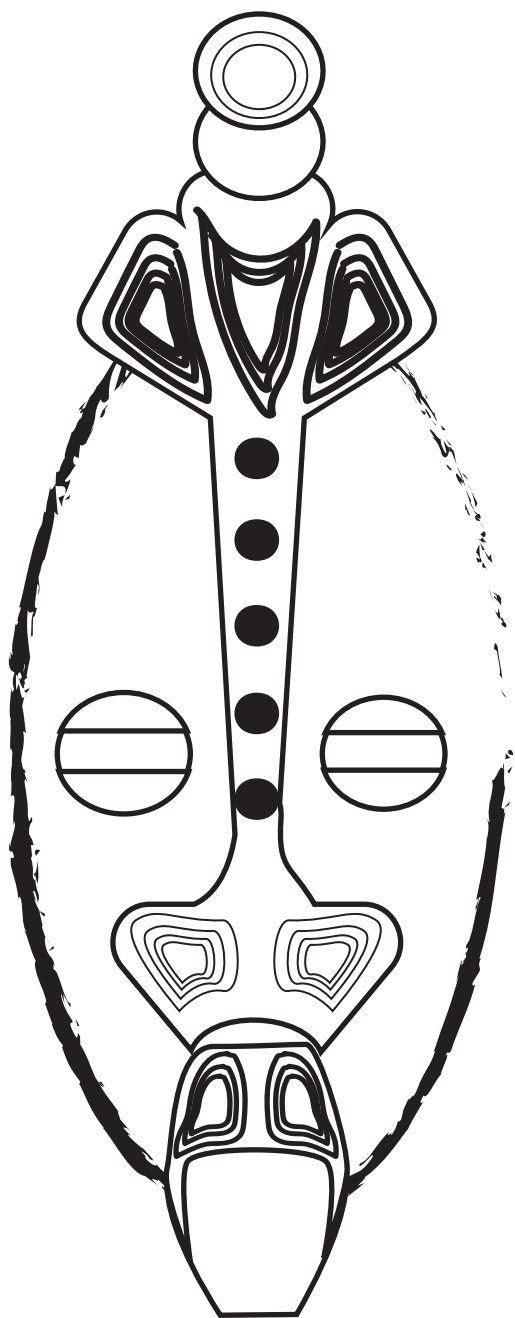

Dontae

Draw your own design here

END

